HITLER MOVES HUGE ARMY TO EASTERN FRONT

Million and Half Men Reported Sent East for Opening of Spring Drive.

By The Associated Press

Adolf Hitler was reported moving 1,500,000 fresh troops into the eastern front today as signs multiplied that the fuehrer was preparing to open his long-heralded spring offensive for a climatic struggle involving 12,000,000 German and Russian soldiers.

Stockholm dispatches said 13,000 German troop trains had moved eastward in the last three months.

London quarters estimated that some 4,500,000 Germans and 7,000,000 Russians were massing for the great battles already beginning to take shape along the 2,000-mile Soviet front.

Indications that "zero hour" may be near for the German drive were seen in recent communiques reporting Nazi offensive thrusts, after months of stressing the bitter defensive nature of German operations. Thus, today's bulletin from German field headquarters reported that "in an attack of our own," Nazi motorized troops dislodged Russian forces from positions northeast of Orel, 200 miles below Moscow.

Yesterday's communique also noted "our own offensive operations" elsewhere on the front.

Heavy Blows in South

London military observers said they expected Hitler to aim his heaviest blows against Marshal Timoshenko's armies on the southern front, in an attempt to break through the 400-mile line between Orel and Taganrog and seize the Caucasus.

There remained the difficulty, however, of halting the Soviet juggernaut, and Hitler's field headquarters again acknowledged powerful Russian attacks were continuing in the Ukraine, on the Moscow front and in the northwest around Leningrad.

All these, the high command said, were "beaten off in stiff fighting."

Soviet dispatches reported new Red army assaults against Kharkov, Russia's "Pittsburgh" in the Ukraine, and said defenders of long-besieged Sevastopol in the Crimea were counterattacking.

Last, the official Soviet news agency declared the Sevastopol garrison had struck offensively at the axis ring about that Black sea naval base after 150 days of siege in which Germany was estimated to have lost 45,000 men.

Reds Hammer Siege Lines at Sevastopol

LONDON, April 1 — Red army men of Sevastopol, veterans of a 150-day siege, were reported counterattacking today in a Crimean preliminary to vast spring engagements which London observers expect to involve about 1,500,000 Germans and 7,000,000 Russians.

Moreover, there were axis accounts of new Russian thrusts against Kharkov, Donets basin industrial center.

Bucharest advices relayed by the Vichy radio said Soviet armored forces, following artillery preparation lasting until Monday midnight, had launched an offensive at the German defenses of Kharkov from the north, east and south.

The German radio asserted today all these thrusts collapsed.

Tass declared the Germans had sacrificed 15,000 men, including officers reserved for their much-advertised spring offensive, in their efforts to capture the Soviet Black sea naval base, and that action to break their ring was under way.

Qualified informants in London said Adolf Hitler was moving 100 fresh divisions into Russia to bolster about 180 struggling to hold key salients. They forecast renewed German efforts to take over all the Crimea and crack Russian defense lines before the difficult Caucasus on the 400-mile southern mainland front between Orel and Taganrog.

Listening post advices suggested to one responsible foreign source that the Germans were preparing for a series of southern drives to clear the railroads and bases they need if they are ever to shake hands with the Japanese in Persia (Iran) or the Indian ocean.

War Plant "Job Buying" Assailed by Cong. Smith

Tells Marion Officials Legislation To Halt Practice Expected; Federal Aid on Housing and Schools Predicted.

Marion problems likely to develop from the Scioto Ordnance Plant and information regarding possible federal help in meeting them were outlined by Congressman Frederick C. Smith in a meeting last night with city council, other municipal officials and Marion's civilian defense council. The meeting was called by Cong. Smith and was held in the Eagles' dining room on West Center street.

Some of the problems mentioned and the outlook for federal aid in handling them include:

Job buying. Cong. Smith charged a labor union closed shop contract on the Scioto Ordnance Plant construction project is being administered in such a way that "men are forced to buy jobs in a plant to make the weapons of war." A remedy of this problem is expected in federal legislation, he said.

Housing. Marion will have a housing problem, and it probably will be met by federal agencies, if the plan followed in other ordnance plant areas is used here.

Schools and recreation. Federal help to expand schools and recreational facilities may be available. Possibility of getting aid of this kind for Marion will be studied at once.

Police. When the question was raised by Mayor Snare, Cong. Smith expressed doubt that any federal funds could be obtained for civilian police here, but assured the city the government will provide police and fire protection for the plant itself.

Cong. Smith called job buying and what he termed other "racketeering" practices in connection with ordnance plants one of the two serious obstacles to the nation's war effort.

"The situation in Marion is causing grave concern," he said. "I've received quite a few letters about it. I refer to the setup of one of the unions in Marion which is forcing every man who wishes to work in the defense plant to pay a certain fee.

Basis of Objection

"I'm not concerned with whether a certain contractor has a closed shop agreement with a union. That's not the point. The serious thing is a situation that requires a man to buy a job to make the materials of war to save his country.

"In a great many places this has become one of the worst rackets that can be conceived. I know the working people because I've practiced medicine among them. I've even carried a union card and I can see the union's viewpoint. However, if this thing is permitted to go on, it will destroy the unions—rather, it will permit a few racketeers within the unions to destroy them.

"You've already had interference with the defense plant here. I have it from a reliable source that some delay over union matters has already been encountered. Perhaps some things seem trifling but this isn't a 99 per cent war—it's a 100 per cent war.

Source of Money

"Every dollar of dues paid these unions comes from the income of the defense plant, which is taxpayers' money. Why should all the taxpayers be forced to pay tribute to any organization for jobs in a defense plant?

"It might be better for me from a political standpoint to keep quiet about this sort of thing, but this is my home and I intend to speak out against any such evil as this. I feel that the rank and file of union labor is patriotic and willing to produce all of the needed war materials without this setup for selling jobs.

"I'm not talking about peacetime activities of labor unions. That's another matter. This is war, and we'll need every ounce of our productive effort to win this struggle.

"I have been unable to obtain a complete list of initiation fees and monthly dues charged in each

Scioto Ordnance Plant Begun As Ground Is Broken

Ground was broken this week on the Scioto Ordnance Plant project with the start of grading operations.

This was announced today by Lt. Col. John Huling Jr., acting commanding officer for the plant.

He also said negotiations are under way with the city to connect the plant with the city sewage system, and with the Marion Water Co. to provide drinking water for workmen.

Meanwhile, arrangements were made to give Marion business men an opportunity to learn some of the plans for the plant at a luncheon Friday noon in Hotel Harding at which representatives of the war department and contracting firms already on the job here will speak.

Plans for the luncheon were announced today by Cutler A. McGrew, president of the Chamber of Commerce. Reservations for the luncheon may be made at the Chamber office.

It is expected the talks will center chiefly around community problems likely to develop in connection with the project and how the war department, contracting firms and Marion residents can best cooperate to meet them.

NAVY DENIED RUBBER DATA

Full Details of Manufacturing Process Not Disclosed, Oil Executive Testifies.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 1 — President W. S. Farish testified under questioning today that officials of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) had not disclosed the full process of manufacturing synthetic rubber to a civilian representative of the navy when the latter inspected Standard's plant in 1939.

This disclosure caused Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) to assert in a hearing before the senate defense investigating committee that any layman such as he could not avoid the inference that an official of Standard was instructed to steer the navy official away from a knowledge of the manufacturing process.

Testimony on the incident came after Farish, replying to charges made last week by Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold that Standard had stifled synthetic rubber production in this country because of cartel agreements with the German dic trust, told the committee that Standard had turned its information about synthetic rubber over to the munitions board in 1939.

O'Mahoney read from a letter, taken from Standard's files and previously introduced in the record by Arnold, excerpts indicating that a naval representative, identified only as Mr. Werkenthin,

TWO FACE SEDITION CHARGES IN WEST

Blasts at Roosevelt and MacArthur Bring Arrests.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, April 1—Isolationists Robert C. Noble, who shouted "to hell with MacArthur," and Ellis O. Jones, who led a mock impeachment of President Roosevelt, were rearrested last night on federal charges of sedition.

Almost simultaneously, the state filed criminal libel charges against Noble, Jones and seven others, accusing them of having libeled Gen. Douglas MacArthur in a pamphlet distributed by their Friends of Progress isolationist organization. Attorney General Earl Warren filed the state charge in Sacramento.

Noble, Jones and four of their followers were arrested shortly after Pearl Harbor and charged with sedition. They were released a few days later on orders from U. S. Attorney General Francis Biddle, who said every effort should be made to maintain free speech and public safety. Noble as judge and Jones as prosecutor had impeached President Roosevelt at a mock trial.

Noble's "hell with MacArthur" statement was made to a Friends of Progress meeting last night. He confirmed it in testimony before a state assembly committee investigating un-American activities. In other appearances before the committee, Noble said he admired Hitler, contended the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor was justified, and advocated "Europe for Hitler" and "the orient for the Japanese." He accused Roosevelt of meddling in world affairs.

KENTON MAN IS ACQUITTED IN WIFE SLAYING

Raver Found Not Guilty Due to Insanity as 8-Day Murder Trial Ends.

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., April 1—Charged with first degree murder, Edward Raver, 23-year-old Kenton factory worker who admitted shooting his wife on Jan. 26, was found not guilty by a jury of seven men and five women who returned their verdict at 1:32 a. m. today in Hardin county common pleas court.

Court officials said the verdict means that Raver will be returned to the Lima state hospital for a period of observation. If he is found to be sane, it is expected he will be given his freedom. He was in the institution from Feb. 10-28 for observation and alienists who studied him at that time testified at the trial that he was sane then and at the time of the shooting.

Despite this testimony the formal verdict, delivered in the early hours of the ninth day after the opening of the trial and after deliberations which started yesterday at 4:45 p. m., was formally: "Not guilty of the offense charged in the indictment on grounds that he was insane at the time of the crime."

When the verdict was given Defense Attorney Roy Warren Roof leaped to his feet and thanked the jury for what he termed "a fair and just decision."

Raver and his father, Walter Raver of Carroll, O., were overjoyed at the verdict.

Jury Polled

States attorneys, Prosecutor Rex W. Hanna and his aide, Paul T. Mahon, requested a poll of the jury and each of the 12 replied that the verdict was his decision.

Mrs. Golda Wetherill, mother of the dead woman, and one of the key state's witnesses, was not in the courtroom.

A fairly large crowd of residents of Kenton and vicinity who have attended the trial throughout its length were on hand for the final moments.

With the exception of a short recess for dinner last evening, the jurors were in constant deliberation until about 1 a. m. today when Common Pleas Judge Arthur D. Tudor called them in with the defense and states' attorneys, and asked them if they felt they could reach a decision or if they would rather go to a hotel for the night and resume deliberations this morning. After talking among themselves the jurors asked to return to the jury room and 32

FOREST GLEN TRIAL NEAR FINISH TODAY

Judge's Charge Expected To Be Given This Afternoon.

Special to The Star

COLUMBUS, April 1—Judge Robert R. Nevin today was to give his charge to the jury in federal district court here in the trial of 35 men, executives and salesmen of Forest Glen, Inc., accused of mailfraud and conspiracy.

The judge's charge was to follow the conclusion of the final argument offered in behalf of the government by United States District Attorney Calvin Crawford.

The government's final argument began yesterday afternoon after the chief defense counsel, Lieutenant Governor Paul Herbert, rested the final defense argument.

In making his final plea for conviction of the 35 defendants, District Attorney Crawford reminded the jury that the one question to keep in mind: "Was there a scheme to defraud in which the United States mails were used?"

The district attorney also told the jury that "anyone who participated in the scheme, early or late, is guilty."

Following the judge's charge, it was expected the jury would begin deliberation immediately. Arrangements have been made to provide quarters for them in a downtown Columbus hotel.

TO CLASSIFY REGISTRANTS

Some of Feb. 16 Group May Be Inducted in 2 Months.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 1—Selective service headquarters announced today that men who registered Feb. 16 would be immediately classified and some probably would be inducted into service in May or June.

There had been some confusion as to whether the Feb. 16 registrants would be integrated with men who registered prior to that date or be called after exhaustion of all previous registrants but today's announcement said:

"Local boards throughout the nation were instructed to start classification at once of the several million men who enrolled Feb. 16 and to prepare to fill the army's June call for men, and possibly the May call with these registrants and registrants from the first age group."

Age Groups

The announcement explained that men who registered Oct. 16, 1940 and July 1, 1941 constituted one group which was referred to in the memorandum to local boards as the "first age group" with those who registered Feb. 16 being referred to as the "second age group."

"The war department," the announcement said, "has indicated that beginning June 1, 1942, requisitions will probably call for men of both age groups."

The memorandum said that local boards which had not completed mailing of questionnaires to registrants of the first age group should continue to mail them but "at the same time the local board will proceed to mail * * * questionnaires * * * to registrants of the second age group in sufficient numbers to insure the filling of the June call * * * entirely from the third registration, if such action is required."

Classifying To Proceed

Local boards were directed to proceed to complete classification of registrants of the first age group and "at the same time" proceed with classification of those in the second age group "in sufficient numbers to insure the filling of the June call * * * entirely from the third registration, if such action is required."

If any local board finds it does not have a sufficient number of men from the first age group available in Class I-A to fill its May call, it was authorized to call enough men from the second age group to fill its quota and was told to continue to classify men in the second age group to be sure that it has enough by June 1 to fill a normal call.

FARM AGENT OFFICE APPOINTMENT MADE

Homer Porteus Prepares for Induction Into Army.

In anticipation of an army call for induction which probably will come in April, Homer Porteus, Marion county farm agent, today announced that Arthur H. Smith is in Marion acquainting himself with the duties of farm agent here.

Mr. Porteus said his induction into the army would necessitate securing a leave from the trustees of the Ohio State university. In the meantime, he said, Mr. Smith, who has been in this type of work since 1923, is preparing to take over the duties in Marion county as farm agent.

Mr. Smith has been filling in for such cases all over the state during the past year. His temporary appointments have given him experience in Guernsey, Wyandot, Portage and Noble counties. He spent seven years as farm agent in Monroe county and 10 in Washington county in the same capacity. In addition, he spent about nine months at the university in specialist work.

At present, his home is in Cambridge, O., but he has announced his intention of establishing permanent residence in Marion as soon as possible.

Mr. Porteus has been in Marion as farm agent since Feb. 16, 1940. He began farm agent work in 1933.

HINDU WARRIOR GROUP ISSUES 1ST REJECTION

Prediction Made In New Delhi That Other Factions Will Turn Down Plan.

By The Associated Press

NEW DELHI, INDIA, April 1—The Sikh all-parties committee, one of India's minority groups, issued the first flat rejection today of Britain's offer of post-war dominion status for India.

The Sikhs, a Hindu warrior caste, rejected the plan as submitted by Britain's special envoy, Sir Stafford Cripps, on the grounds that it would leave them at the mercy of the Moslem majority in Punjab province.

As a result the Sikhs were expected to make common cause against the Moslems with the Mahasabha, organization of Hindu extremists, whose rejection of the offer already had appeared certain.

The chief stumbling block to acceptance was the requirement that India's wartime defenses be left in British hands.

The British government's offer of post-war dominion status was predicated on the understanding that Britain would have full control of India's defense effort against the imminent danger of Japanese invasion.

India Helpless Without Aid

Without Britain's aid, both in supplies and military guidance, India would be virtually defenseless against a Japanese onslaught from next-door Burma, where allied British and Chinese forces have been steadily losing ground.

Other, more powerful factions were showing a similar disposition to refuse British overtures seeking to end India's long-smouldering frictions and unite the country's 300,000,000 population into a fighting force for the allies.

A last-minute glimmer of hope was seen, however, in a joint statement of Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Dr. Mukund Ramrao Jayakar, spokesmen of India's non-party leaders, who said "it would be a tragedy if the Cripps mission failed, for it would produce a keen sense of disappointment and frustration and provoke antagonism which in our opinion would be disastrous in this hour of crisis."

Although urging that Britain compromise somewhat on the defense issue, these leaders said Britain's proposal "make it clear that after the war India will not have to struggle for recognition of its constitutional and international status."

Congratulates Cripps

Aurobindo Ghose, Indian spiritual leader whose sanctuary at Pondicherry is well known to American visitors, also sent a message to Cripps congratulating him upon his Monday broadcast explaining the proposals.

The decision of the All-India Congress party probably will be hailed today and the opinion was widely held that the potent, ardently nationalist movement would spurn the British terms.

The answer of the congress party's working committee, it was understood, was being drafted by Mohandas K. Gandhi and Pandit Juwaharlal Nehru, both former congress presidents, for final consideration by the committee.

Discussions yesterday again revolved chiefly around the issue of control of defenses for this great sub-continent and its 300,000,000 inhabitants—already under the menace of Japanese forces in Burma and on islands in the Bay of Bengal.

This part of the British plan has met such opposition that, failing a substantial change, it was believed it might prove a stumbling block for the whole scheme.

A dispatch to the Daily Herald, London Laborite newspaper, said Gandhi had advised rejection of the plan as "unworthy" and a report from New Delhi to the London News Chronicle said that the Sikhs already had turned it down because it would place them in a minority in the Punjab.

CHINESE SLIP JAPANESE TRAP

Troops Fall Back at Toungoo; Bataan Defenders Under Heavy Attack.

By The Associated Press

Hard-fighting Chinese defenders of Burma were reported to have escaped a Japanese trap at Toungoo today, falling back to the north after the fiercest battle of the whole Burma campaign so far.

Toungoo 135 airline miles from Rangoon, was the eastern anchor of the allied line in central Burma.

In the Philippines, a war department bulletin reported, Japanese troops heavily attacked the right center of Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's line on Bataan peninsula last night and captured some of the advanced positions.

The communique said the invaders were halted, however, in fierce combat before they could reach the main American-Filipino defenses.

The communique added that the Japanese imperial high command in the Philippines had broadcast a formal apology for the aerial bombing of an American base hospital in Bataan, declaring the attack was unintentional.

Heads Relief Column

On the Burma front, Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, fiery American commander of Chinese forces in that theater, personally led a column to relieve Chinese troops at Toungoo.

Front-line dispatches said remnants of the Toungoo garrison, originally estimated at 10,000 Chinese against 18,000 Japanese, slashed their way through enemy lines, crossed the Sittang river under point-blank fire, and scattered in the woody hills to make contact with a Chinese relief army.

Five thousand Japanese were reported killed in the bloody five-day siege of the town. Chinese losses were not disclosed.

On the British-held western flank, the situation was equally grave.

British headquarters acknowledged that strong Japanese forces were holding Shwedaung, 10 miles south of Prome, on the road to the west Burma oil fields, after Funny? Why, As April Fool Jokesters Those Axis Guys Are Killer Dillers!

By HERMAN ALLEN
Wide World Features Writer

April 1st. Bone joy Haw-haw!

Adolf Hitler and his Axis pals are usually just full of fun when April comes around. Maybe it's just the sap starting, maybe it's because it's time to push a line of tanks around the country when the snow has melted. Anyway, as far back as 1932, the year Hitler ran against Von Hindenburg for president, he "ordered" his followers to avoid trouble which might postpone the election, then turned around and accused Von Hindenburg's side of monopolizing the radio.

Some Niftles

Von Hindenburg won Hitler wasn't strong enough yet to stop him, but in 1933, as chancellor, he embarked on a long string of April Fool jokes. That year he and his boys pulled these niftles:

Hitler said he stood for "peace with equality." (But already his propaganda machine was dinning hate into German ears).

Von Papen and Goering said Germany and Austria would "cooperate with the same objectives." (Austria "cooperated" a few years later).

Hitler denied he had offered dictatorship to the people, said a new German people must be created. (Twenty thousand were being made into new Germans in concentration camps).

The Nazis promised to limit a Jewish boycott to one day, just to "put them in their place." (Boycott and worse are still going on).

Mussolini, meanwhile, was saying that Fascism protects Jews. (Italy now has anti-Jewish laws modeled after Germany's).

And Since Then

This is the way it has gone since then:

April, 1934—German Reichstag passed a huge military budget. Goering declared defense of German borders was a part of police duty; youths were drafted into the army to "relieve unemployment."

But Hitler said Germany wanted peace.

Mussolini said Italy wanted peace, too, but a few weeks later he declared she must be prepared for war. "Incidents" on the Ethiopian border were beginning to break out at that time.

Japan began extra heavy imports of scrap iron that year.

April, 1935—Germany disclosed a plan to rebuild her navy. Many U-boats had already been built, and there was a new German base on the North Sea island of Sylt.

But Hitler found time to send Anthony Eden his congratulations on recovering from a spell of illness.

April, 1936—Hitler proposed a four-month truce in Rhineland dispute, couldn't understand England's and France's unwillingness to let him fortify the territory. So, just for a joke, he marched his soldiers in and left them there.

April, 1937—German Finance Minister Schacht said Germany wouldn't object to including Russia in a European economic agreement.

Mussolini warned that Italy couldn't guarantee the independence of Austria if the Hapsburg royal family were allowed to return. (Hitler took the ball away from him on that one before long).

Peace, It's Wonderful

The Rome press said the time was "favorable for peace."

After months of friendship talk, Japan announced an arms expansion program.

April, 1938—Breathing spell; no big jokes.

April, 1939 — Hitler rejected FDR's appeal for an anti-war conference; he also denounced the Polish non-aggression treaty and the naval and Munich agreements with Great Britain.

Mussolini turned down FDR's appeal too and said the idea of war was ridiculous—look, the Italians were sending an exhibit to the World's fair in New York. It was that month that Italy invaded Albania.

Germany emphasized friendship for Yugoslavia (that one paid off exactly two years later) and published Rumania's reply to a questionnaire that she felt a "lack of security."

April, 1941—Germany invaded Denmark and Norway. (Ain't that a killer?)

April, 1941—Germany pushed down the Balkans and occupied Greece.

The Axis forced its way into Egypt from Libya.

German raiders were preying on shipping in the Indian Ocean.

What will they think of this next?

What do I do?

—to protect my car's "lungs" against harmful dust?

The air cleaner on your carburetor is a lot like the family vacuum cleaner. It can't do its job right unless it's cleaned out once in awhile—about every 1,000 or 2,000 miles. Your car "breathes" in about 6,000 cubic feet (a fair-sized house-full) of air an hour to explode the gas. If the air cleaner is clogged up, dirt and grit get in, too, and that's tough on your motor. So keep it clean!

Union County Sheriff Appoints New Deputy

Special to The Star

[illegible] Thomas Hobart of Marysville appointed deputy [illegible] Tuesday [illegible]

Deputy James H. Davis who [illegible] to enter federal [illegible] service.

Deputy Hobart was [illegible] Marysville Manufacturing Co. here.

The Romans introduced [illegible] Rome into the British Isles.

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

BEST storekeeper I ever knew was a fellow named Sam Abernethy. Sam's specialty was to take over some run-down store that somebody else had given up as a failure. Then Sam would turn it into a gold mine.

"But the most important thing of all," he used to say, "is to remember who's Boss!"

"You may think you are Boss of your business . . . but you're not. The Public, your customers, are the real bosses . . . and you've got to run your business the way they want it."

That little statement of Sam's made a big impression on me particularly since it certainly seemed to work so well in Sam's case.

And Sam isn't the only one I see the beer industry feels the same way . . . certainly the brewers solve in running their business the way you and I would like to see it run.

Folks like us like to see beer sold in clean, quiet, decent places. Well . . . the brewers feel the same way about it. They don't want their beer sold in wrong surroundings. They know it doesn't pay. And they know it hurts the good name of beer.

I was reading the other day how the brewers and the beer distributors work together and cooperate with law enforcement authorities. The idea is to make careless beer-retailers clean up their places and practices . . . or close up.

It's a good plan . . . and it seems to me it ought to work. I understand it is already in operation in a number of states and is being extended.

It's a mighty fine thing when a great industry has the gumption to do a job like that on its own initiative. And if Sam Abernethy was right, the brewers should be mighty successful . . . because they're running their business the way the public wants to see it run.

President's Pledge Goes with Soldiers

By The Associated Press

WASHINTON, April 1—Every American soldier and marine is receiving, upon departing for far-flung battlefronts, a copy of a letter from President Roosevelt telling them they will be supported "by the whole force and power of this nation."

Following publication of the text of the letter distributed to members of the army expeditionary force in Iceland, presidential Secretary Stephen Early disclosed that all soldiers were receiving identical messages as soon as they embarked for the outposts of the United Nations. A similar letter goes to members of the marine corps expeditionary forces.

Two Workmen Suffer Burns at Upper Sandusky

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, April 1—R. F. Gottfried and George M. Tschanen, both of here, were treated by a local physician for burns which they suffered in an explosion of an ammonia compressor in the cooling system of the Chief Dairy Products Co.

The two men were working in the building housing the cold storage system west of the main plant at the time of the explosion. The excessive pressure developing in the ammonia compressor caused the cylinder head of the compressor to blow off. Immediately a lot of ammonia gas escaped.

A piece of the cylinder head struck Mr. Gottfried near the temple. But it was thought that injury was not serious. The two men were in a dazed condition and some way unaided staggered from the building. Both men sustained severe burns about the face and chest.

An important announcement about
VITAMINS

Tired? Working wartime hours? Need more Vitamins? Here's the new way to get your Vitamins and Minerals —LOWEST COST EVER!

Wartime is no time to feel tired and listless! You can't afford to be run-down, jittery. You can't afford to be a pushover for colds.

What can you do?

Get as much rest and exercise as you can. Eat good foods. And be sure you are getting enough vitamins and minerals. The best estimate of Government experts is that 3 out of 4 don't! Figure your own chances.

Today it's easy to get your vitamins and minerals. Vimms are here—a new entirely different kind of vitamin product.

Not 1 or 2 vitamins — but 6!

Doctors will tell you that we need more than just one or two vitamins to keep fit. That no one vitamin can do the work of another. There are 6 vitamins known to be essential in nutrition. So Vimms give you all 6 ... in the right amounts to round out your diet.

A and D? Certainly. Vitamin C? Of course. And all 3 essential vitamins of the B Complex, too (B_1, B_2 and P-P).

But Vimms don't stop there. They give you 3 vital minerals—Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron, too.

Vimms cost only a few pennies a day—less than any product of comparable type and potency. Just read the labels. Compare the potencies and the prices! Vimms give you more for your money than any product we know.

The new way to get your vitamins and minerals—the Vimms way—is in little pure white tablets. Vimms are easy to swallow, pleasant to eat. Children like Vimms.

If you have been low on vitamins and minerals, Vimms may help you amazingly. And they can't harm you—for vitamins are food, not medicine.

Start Vimms today!

It costs very little to find out what Vimms can do. You may be very, very thankful that you tried. Start adding Vimms to your whole family's diet today. Then keep it up. You may feel better than you ever thought you could! Lever Brothers Co., Pharmaceutical Division, Cambridge, Mass.

CHAPTER 21

Call From Jimmy

AT THE noonday meal that was both breakfast and lunch aboard the River Queen, Randy was in high spirits, so much so that the others looked at him curiously. And when Melissa came in and they saw the bright color burning in her cheeks beneath Randy's caressing glance, they all grinned and exchanged meaningful glances.

Randy looked about the room, grinned and said, lifting his glass of orange juice, "O.K., folks, I see there's no need of our trying to keep it a secret — Melissa has consented to marry me."

Alice said drily, "It's too early in the morning for effective acting, so do you mind if we don't register surprise? Congratulations, and all that — and felicitations. I've seen it coming from the very first!"

"Wise guy, aren't you?" said Randy, coloring a little.

"Very wise," agreed Alice, grinning at him cheerfully.

The others were laughing, talking, teasing the blushing Melissa, and for the moment Randy and Alice were able to talk unobserved and unheard.

"You think I'm doing her a dirty trick, don't you?" demanded Randy straightly.

Alice met his eyes levely.

"Not if you are quite sure that no little ghosts out of the past will bob up to make her miserable later on," she answered quietly.

"I haven't broken any laws, if that's what you mean. I'm not a racketeer or a gangster to be hauled off to jail unexpectedly or to be put on the spot and have the spot rubbed out by some irate former accomplice," Randy reminded her drily.

"I don't mean that and you know it," answered Alice with spirit. "I know everything on the River Queen is on the up and up or Hugh and I wouldn't be working here, badly as we need the money. I meant the only kind of ghosts that would bother Melissa —later on. If you were hauled off to jail they'd have to haul her, too—that wouldn't bother Melissa the way I mean."

"Then what sort of ghosts would bother her?" demanded Randy curtly.

"Dolores' kind," answered Alice firmly.

"Oh," said Randy, and looked startled. "You mean you think there was—well, something between Dolores and me other than the relation between an employer and employee?"

"Something of that kind," admitted Alice frankly.

"Then you're wrong, Alice," said Randy so simply that Alice was convinced in spite of herself. "I never made love to Dolores, or any other woman, for that matter, until now. I've always fought shy of women. I've seen the mess that some of them have made for men I liked, and—well, I just thought that for me the marriage stuff was out. I still feel I've no right to Melissa—she's so young and sweet and untouched. I wish I could be—oh—"

A knight in silver armor, without fear and without reproach and aboard a white horse?" suggested Alice, affectionately derisive. "Well, take another gal's word for it, boss—knights in silver armor can be the most gosh awful bores sometimes. I'm sure Melissa would rather have you as you are! I know I would!"

Summons

Randy said simply, his eyes shining, his voice eager and vibrant, "Thanks, Alice—thanks a million. You're a pal!"

"Think nothing of it, boss—think nothing of it," said Alice cheerfully. "You were pretty much of a pal yourself to Hugh and me when we landed here. Any little thing I can do in return—"

Randy held out his hand, and Alice put hers in it, and they smiled at each other in warm, friendly understanding.

There was Melissa and Rand agreed, no point in making a secret of the engagement. The wedding date was set for a month hence, to give Randy time to make certain business arrangements so they could have a week or two for a honeymoon while Al took over in the game rooms and Bob, the orchestra leader, and Hugh took over the entertainment.

Three or four days after the engagement had been announced informally among their friends and some of the show boat's most frequent visitors, Melissa was on deck in the late afternoon, lying in her favorite deck chair, a book unopened on her knee. Her thoughts and dreams were far more perfect company than any printed page could ever be, but if she pretended to be reading people didn't disturb her by trying to talk to her.

A car drew up at the pier and a Negro man, middle-aged and wearing a smart gray whipcord chauffeur's uniform, came swiftly to the River Queen.

"I'm lookin' for Miss Melissa Marlowe," he said, and Melissa "I'm Marse Jim Marston's chauffer, Miss. I been sent to fetch you—young Marse Jimmy's badly hurt and he say he want to see you. I 'spects we betteh hurry. Docto' say he hurt bad."

Melissa caught her breath on a little gasp and found Randy beside her, puzzled, questioning. The chauffeur explained his presence and Randy, frowning, said, "Now what the devil could Jimmy Marston want with you?"

"I don't know, suh, but de docto' say she have to hurry ef she wanna see him," said the chauffeur simply, his face ashen with tragedy.

"I'll go, of course," said Melissa, and looked down at the honey yellow sharskin slacks and jade green jacket that was her favorite lounging costume for leisure hours aboard. "I don't suppose I'd have time to change?"

"'Fraid not, Miss," answered the chauffeur, and turned away.

"I'll go with you, of course," said Randy, and together they followed the chauffeur to the waiting car.

Melissa was frightened. Something ugly lay just ahead. The implications of the doctor's instructions for haste could not be avoided; Jimmy was badly hurt; if she wanted to see him, she must hurry. That meant Jimmy might be dying. She caught her breath on a little sob and found Randy's arm about her, holding her close, wordlessly comforting her.

The big car turned in at the private drive and she could not help remembering the last time she had come there, with Jimmy gay and quick with life and youth and animal spirits, beside her. And now Jimmy was badly hurt. The car halted at the steps and Randy got out, turning to help her, a gay little figure in honey yellow and jade green, with silly little embroidered wooden-soled clogs on her stockingless feet.

As they went up the steps the door opened and Mrs. Marston stood there, her face gray, her eyes bleak, a wilk look about her before which Melissa shrank backward, despite Randy's arm about her.

Bitter Words

"You needn't come in," said Mrs. Marston in a harsh, ugly voice that had an almost eery quality in it. "It's too late. He—he doesn't want to see you ever again."

Melissa said shakily, "I'm terribly sorry he's hurt—"

"He won't ever be hurt again—not even by cruel, heartless little wretches like you!" Mrs. Marston cut in savagely. "You can be very proud of your work. You flirted with him, led him on, got him crazy about you, thinking that you were going to marry him—and then when he stopped being amusing, you threw him over—made a fool of him—"

"But, Mrs. Marston, I told him all along that I didn't love him—that I couldn't marry him. I told you that first day I came here—" stammered Melissa swiftly.

Mrs. Marston's lip curled in a sneer.

"And of course, Jimmy and I both recognized that as an excellent bit of technique. You were smart enough—girls of your type that you were hard to get—that he had to fight hard for you. And Jimmy always loved a fight. Anything he had to fight for seemed to him gloriously worth having," she said harshly. "But now he's finished with fighting—he's finished with loving a girl completely unworthy of him—he's finished with living! And so have I—"

"Jimmy is dead?" asked Randy, and knew by the look on his mother's face that Jimmy was.

Melissa gave a little shocked, protesting, "Oh, no!" and hid her face against Randy's shoulder.

"I don't wonder you cry out," said Mrs. Marston grimly. "I hope you will suffer as you made him suffer. You couldn't suffer as I am suffering for you're only a cheap, spoiled, shallow little thing not worth the paring of Jimmy's little fingernail."

"You mustn't say things like that, Mrs. Marston," said Randy swiftly. "Melissa is in no way to blame for whatever has happened."

"No" Mrs. Marston's lip curled. "She made a fool of Jimmy—she let him think she loved him. And he fought for her, forcing them to accept her—forcing his father and me to consent to his marriage to her. He used the Christmas check his father and I gave him to buy an engagement ring for her, and even then she was coy, pretending that she didn't intend to marry him. And then yesterday when he heard that she was going to marry you — well, of course the whole world will think that it was an automobile accident—that he lost control of his car and that it turned over on him.

"But his father and I know that it was no accident—and I want Melissa Marlowe to know it, too, and to know how it feels to have a man's blood on her hands."

"I'm terribly sorry for your grief and suffering, Mrs. Marston but I can't let you talk like that to Melissa," said Randy harshly. "She is completely innocent and I won't have her bullied or tortured."

He turned and guided Melissa back down the drive.

EDWINA DUMM'S FAMOUS COMIC CARTOON DOG DIES

Former Upper Sandusky Resident Mourns Death of "Tippie."

"Tippie," for years the star performer in Edwina Dumm's comic strip, is dead, according to a news story from New York. Miss Dumm, a former resident of Upper Sandusky, and one of the few women ever to be a successful comic strip artist, is the daughter of the late Frank Dumm, who was at one time on the editorial staff of The Marion Star and also a former resident of Upper Sandusky.

The death of "Tippie," a female "mostly wire-haired terrier," became known when Miss Dumm made arrangements to erect a memorial over the dog's grave in a pet cemetery at Hartsdale, N. Y. According to the news dispatch, the antics of "Tippie" were the inspiration of thousands of her newspaper strips and magazine drawings and brought her fame and fortune.

Miss Dumm said she would try to find another dog like "Tippie" but was of the opinion she would not find one with Tippie's "personality."

Best News Yet

IF EVENTS of the next four weeks sustain the Australian air minister's statement that American and Australian planes have won control of the air over New Guinea, this will be the best news yet from the Pacific. There hasn't been much competition for the distinction.

Australia—specifically, the northern coastline of the continent—is a good air base, if it can be held. From it, airplanes can reach points as far away as Java. They can threaten Japanese positions all the way to Singapore. If the United Nations can maintain control of the air, they can keep Japan from securing its gains. Ultimately, they can win the war of attrition in airplane production that Japan is poorly prepared to wage. Everything depends on their ability to hold Australia intact as an air base and to furnish it with enough planes and pilots to hold the Japanese at bay.

This is the thing Americans have looked forward to doing. Airplanes, they have felt, are destined to be their contribution to victory. In every part of the world their planes are being flown and tested; the reports are favorable. The most critical test has been in the southwest Pacific, where this country has been obliged to take the initiative in the fighting. If subsequent developments confirm the statement that superiority has been established at the point where it had to be established to save the day, nothing but victory on Bataan peninsula possibly could be better news.

A Fine Time To Be On Guard

THERE is an attempt now under way to label all persons holding certain opinions as agents of Nazi Germany. Some of the sources of this dangerous move are uncomfortably important—the office of facts and figures and Vice President Wallace, for instance. The former even has gone so far as to publish a list of topics, charging that anyone who opens his mind to the forbidden side of the issue is working for Hitler.

This is, of course, an extremely ticklish proposition, because Hitler naturally would be pleased by anything suggesting that Americans lack unity. But in his opinion—in the opinion of any dictator—any discussion at all is incontrovertible evidence of weakness. In the opinion of most persons believing in representative democracy, however, this merely is evidence that Americans still are capable of looking at both sides of things, without necessarily being converted to either side.

If all the gentlemen in Washington will bear in mind that it is possible for a gentleman in Peoria to be a good patriot and at the same time to suggest that Congressman Martin Dies woke up to the danger from abroad long before some of his critics woke up—even though Hitler may laugh with joy at the congressman's antics—everybody will be a great deal happier and the American way of life will be much safer. When political efforts start to ascribe a wide variety of conflicting opinions to subversive influences, it is a fine time to be on guard lest some homegrown opinion become, by bureaucratic whimsy, circumstantial evidence of seditious thinking.

Mr. Berle's Information

IN WAYS that are mysterious, Adolf A. Berle Jr., assistant secretary of state, professes to know that the Nazis know they have lost the war. Chief evidence—"from sources inside Germany"—is that the Hitler regime is making no plans for 1943. There will be a last gigantic effort this year and that will be the end. It is victory or nothing.

Mr. Berle's information raises more questions than it answers. Aside from the question as to why he would say such a thing at all is the question of what would be done if Germany were to sue for peace, say next November, following the timetable of World war I? It certainly isn't too soon to begin to wonder about this.

It is commonly assured that the instant German army opinion is convinced of Hitler's failure, he will be disposed of and the army will take over, probably with a view to salvaging as much as possible from the wreckage for another attempt at world conquest later. If this were to happen, Germany would hope for an advantageous peace; it would try to keep the war from doing injury to Germany, just as it did in 1918, when it stopped the war before German territory was in danger.

If Mr. Berle's information is correct and this is going to happen, always provided, of course, that this summer's last gigantic effort fails, it is time to decide now what should happen if and when the Germans yell, "Kamerad."

News Behind the News

Familiar Pattern of Conquest Being Laid in Sweden as Gen. List Arrives.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 1—The Nazi Blitz-General List arrived in the north quietly a few days ago, just about the time the southpapers of the Swedish press were concluding Hitler would not invade them this season.

List has never been known as a sightseer or ski fancier, but is the tank general who ravaged France, Yugoslavia and Greece with speed unprecedented before in warfare. He is the Nazi lightning-setter although he did not cast very much in Russia.

Sweden, of course, does not merit such high class military attention. A Nazi sweep in from Norway, coupled with landings from Denmark and Germany at Malmo and Trollerborg, should duplicate the Norwegian job with the use of no more than ten or twelve German divisions.

Sweden, while promising now a hard fight, is not known to have the military wherewithal for formidable resistance against a force of 150,000 or more.

Thus is the familiar pattern of conquest being laid. First diplomatic pressure, then suppression of newspapers, then visits from German officials, now from a blitz general.

All the while propaganda has been circulated to make the Swedes fear a Russian victory and conquest from that quarter, if Germany loses. Finally now there has come the lull of security, which means the time is ripe for lightning.

An Easy Victory

Few here were impressed with the threat to Sweden when discussions were warm in the press a week or so ago. There is not much for Hitler to gain there. He is getting the iron ore and some other materials. It is true this limits him to his pre-war share, but that seems to be enough.

Some see military advantage for him in the strengthening of his Finnish and Norwegian positions, if he takes Sweden, but this would not be worth the effort involved. Sweden is just another easy victory lying around loose at a time when Nazi victories are getting fewer and harder.

Timing?

The thaw is now on at the Ukrainian front in south Russia. Within a week or two, the roads will be good for tanks. In fact, Hitler could have started before this if he intended to keep his old military pace.

If the weather has not delayed him, what has? Is he holding back the leash on the great forces he has amassed at the southern Russian front in order to time that drive with something else?

Just about this time every year, der fuehrer disgorges what he likes to call a surprise. In 1940 it was Norway; last year, Yugoslavia and Greece. It is inconceivable that he has been consulting the muses all winter without indulging his penchant for surprises.

The south Russian drive might bear more world weight if coupled with occupation of Sweden, not particularly if timed with a Jap attack on Vladivostok.

Jap Troubles

The Japs have not reinforced their south Pacific armies lately. No more steaming transports have been discerned moving toward Java or New Guinea. In fact, the New Guinea drive has bogged down in a flood in the jungles halfway to Port Moresby from Lae and Salamaua (on the north shore of the peninsula).

The Japs there have barely enough forces to take Port Moresby (which they no doubt will do eventually), but not enough to go ahead from there into Australia. It is doubtful also whether they have enough in Java for further conquests.

Consequently a question is arising as to when or whether the Japs intend to move at Darwin. From bases at Timor and elsewhere they can continue bombing so General MacArthur will be unable to maintain formidable airfields along the north shore for attacks on them. They may figure this is enough and not even attempt landing on Australian soil.

Suspicious Jap troop movements have been noted north of Nanking, indicating reinforcement of the northern front. It is just possible these troops are destined for Manchukuo and spring action against Vladivostok.

Nazi Oil

Thaws should start in about two weeks on the Moscow central front, but the muddy period generally lasts much longer there than in the south. It may be six to eight weeks yet before the fighting terrain is good in that area.

But no one here can see the possibility that Hitler's annual spring sensation will break there. He needs oil. It lies a few miles ahead of him on the Ukrainian front. Unless he gets it this summer, he will have a hard time going through another winter.

Importance of oil to the Nazis has been stressed so often, and Hitler has so frequently found a way out, that the subject has lost its vital significance to many people. He seized supplies in Holland, Belgium and France, and then acquired the Rumanian oil fields, to skip the oily grave which so many experts had dug for him. But there are no more supplies to be confiscated, and the Rumanian fields cannot support indefinitely the extended kind of war he has been forced to in Russia.

Therefore, the near east must be his main objective, or he must find a magician who can make oil out of last hopes.

Financial Strategy

Liberty Bond Sales Reached 21 Billion Dollars.

THE grandest strategy of war is devised by financiers, not generals. Unless equipment can be furnished and soldiers clothed and fed, the generals are helpless.

The financing of the American war effort this time naturally suggests comparisons with World war I. The first bids of the financing of that war came from five offerings of Liberty Bonds to the public. The first Liberty Loan campaign, two and a third months after the United States entered the war, totaled $2,000,000,000. In the three and a half months after Pearl Harbor, Saving Bonds worth $2,650,000,000 were sold.

Since Pearl Harbor, incidentally, sales of Savings Bonds, with relatively little high-pressure ballyhoo, have averaged about $750,000,000 a month. However sales have been declining. They were $536,000,000 in December, $1,075,000,000 in January, $711,000,000 in February and for the first two-thirds of March were $580,000,000. March was income tax month, in February, exposures of silly practices in civilian defense are supposed to have hurt sales.

In two years between 1917 and 1919 the government realized about $21,500,000,000 from Liberty Bond sales, an average of about $900,000,000 a month. The first Liberty Bonds were attractive investments for wealthy investors. The interest was completely exempt from income taxes and paid at a rate of 3½ per cent. This was to be raised to correspond to the highest interest rate paid on later Liberty Bonds—4¼ per cent on the fifth issue.

THE Liberty Bond campaigns, spaced about six months apart, were models of high-pressure selling. By assigning quotas to business enterprises, for instance, subscription was made virtually compulsory. Many purchasers borrowed money to buy Liberty Bonds.

Important point of difference between the Liberty Bonds and today's Savings Bonds is the fact the latter are sold at discount; there will be no losses due to the price falling below par. Interest on Liberty Bonds, moreover, was paid during the war, whereas interest on Savings Bonds isn't realized until they mature or are sold. A third difference is that some Liberty Bond issues ran for varying periods, Savings Bonds all mature 10 to 12 years from date of issue, though they may be redeemed at any time.

Bulk of the money the government is obtaining by sale of securities is from regular issues, bought by banks and other financial institutions. More than half the money put into Savings Bonds has gone for Series E, which may be bought only by individuals, with a maximum of $3,750 in face value going to a single purchaser in any one calendar year. Series F and G may be bought by any investors except commercial banks to a combined total of $50,000 in any one year. It held to maturity, these issues are about a 2½ per cent investment; Series E, held to maturity, is a 2.9 per cent investment.

AN important change in broad financial planning is the stress now being laid on anti-inflationary measures in connection with heavy taxation and Savings Bond sales. Both are for the double purpose of raising money and holding down price levels. There is talk, moreover, of steps to make purchase of bonds compulsory, instead of optional with individual investors. In the senate recently, a member of the finance committee, Sen. Brown of Michigan, proposed that war workers receive excess pay for overtime in the form of non-negotiable government bonds.

An ash hauler's truck, belching smoke and afire from stem to stern rolled up to the back door of the fire station. They drove the big pumper half around the building, attached a hose at a nearby plug and soon had the flames extinguished.

Airplane Bottlenecks

Little Delays Still Plague the "Big Five" Plants.

By SIGRID ARNE

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, April 1—Big Bill Knudsen brought an airplane conference up short one day by reminding them, "It's not building the planes. It's the things that go into them."

That's the headache today in this growing center of aircraft production.

There are five huge plants in the area: Vultee, Douglas, North American, Lockheed and Consolidated. They have floor space which dwarfs athletic fields. They have the workers. The big snarls are gone from the assembly lines.

But they're running into little bottlenecks which are not serious, but irritating. Maybe one week the propellers won't arrive on time. Maybe it's instruments. Maybe engines.

The shortages seldom last more than a week, and actually they're due to the cheering fact that the plane-makers have now outstripped the parts makers.

It's such a little annoyance after what the "big five" have been through that they take the little bottlenecks in their stride. They go right on building the planes, roll them off assembly lines, fly them to hiding places, and then shuttle them back when the tardy part arrives.

1938 Headache

The really big headache came back in '38, just after Munich. The plane makers saw the handwriting on the wall, and worried unhappily over the big rush when America finally awoke; the rush for tools and trained workers.

Came January, 1939, a Douglas bomber crashed here, and it leaked out that a French military observer was aboard.

It developed that Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau had given the French permission to see our plants, with the hope foreign orders would give American manufacturers a chance to tool up for big production.

The foreign orders came. Now the big five look weak when they think of the possibilities; that if they hadn't received the foreign work we might now be two years behind.

Started in 1920

The aircraft industry here started in 1920 when Donald Douglas sat in a barbershop backroom and designed a plane. He built a small plant and squeezed through on army and navy orders, two and three at a time. When war broke he was building transports for 22 nations, transports which were redesigned into troop ships and cargo ships.

Douglas men think their light bomber, the Havoc, is the fastest in the world. The British use it for night raids, because it has a gadget which prevents it nosing over when it has to land in the dark. There's one squadron of Douglas Havocs flying over Europe which didn't lose a single plane the first six months.

Douglas built last year's huge mystery ship, the B-19. It's a flying laboratory.

Lockheed was the second plant in this area. It built transports, too, until the war. Now everything is shelved for the war.

Lockheed arrived in 1928 to make the forerunner of today's streamliner. It was a Lockheed which took Wiley Post around the world. Howard Hughes made his round-the-world record in another.

There were Lockheeds — Hudson bombers—flying out of England the night war began. More than a hundred Hudsons covered the retreat from Dunkirk.

Vultee's Dive Bomber

Vultee made a pursuit, designed for Sweden, but war broke out before all were delivered, so the remainder went to China. They've developed a dive bomber with a secret gadget which makes the dive safer. It's claimed to be 100 miles faster than the German Stuka.

Vultee designs have developed so fast they've given up the old method of building a test plane first. Most of the plants have. Now, the minute a design is okayed, the assembly line is tooled, and the plane goes into production.

Vultee's big headache was the strike a year ago. It lasted 15 days, and then the army took over.

North American started here in '35 with trainers and observation planes. Now it is turning out bombers and fighters too.

At Consolidated, in San Diego, the giants of the air are rolling off the line. They build big land and sea bombers.

It is their Catalina which now protects the lifeline to England, hovering over the convoys and chasing off raiders.

King of Spades Not Ominous Card in Leagues Where This Manipulator Learned Tricks.

A SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA poker player slumped from his chair to the floor under a cannon shotgun blast and a card he had just drawn fluttered from the table to land on his chest.

It was the king of spades, "ominous card of fortune tellers," as a Los Angeles newspaper speaks of it in a tale of the preliminary hearing of the alleged killers. It also speaks of "the curse of spades."

Now the king of spades is not an ominous card, as we remember our fortune telling. It is just a dark complected guy in a dame's life, or a brunette in a bloke's. Such character may be disquieting, we admit, but not necessarily ominous. At least they do not usually have the sinister connotations suggested by the newspaper story.

The king of spades is not associated with death or disaster, but more with romance. And in all our experience in card playing we have never heard of any curse connected with spades. Maybe we have not been playing in the right circles. In our set, spades are supposed to be lucky cards, particularly the ace. If ever you needed one, you will know what we mean.

WE were brought up in the belief that the truly ominous card in the deck is the nine of diamonds, known as the "curse of Scotland" for reasons that are somewhat obscure to us. We vaguely recall that the black mark against the nine had something to do with the double-crossing of some old time Scot. Anyway, around the race track to "nine" anybody means to screw 'em a bad deal.

Our card playing education included the information that the cards related to death are aces and eights of any suit in a poker hand. The story is that long ago a gambler called his opponent's bet and fell back in his chair dead as a pickled herring before he could exhibit the winning hand, which was a pair of aces and a pair of eights. Probably there are variations of this yarn.

Aces and eights came to be known as the dead man's hand, and in our youth we were told that this combination was unbeatable. Our confidence in the information was soon dispelled, however. We learned that three little deuces could make the defunct mortal's dub look very silly, indeed. And eventually we became somewhat confused when we learned that in some sections it is not aces and eights that constitute the corpse's hand but jacks and eights of any suit.

IN certain western cities the poker players use to accept both aces and eights and jacks and eights as the dead man's hand, but differentiated between the two by calling the jacks and eights the Montana dead man's hand. As we understood it, a man in Montana died holding jacks and eights and the westerners seemed to feel that he was entitled to as much distinction as the guy who passed away behind the aces and eights. Personally, we are inclined to think that the euphonic quality of the latter combination made it famous rather than any mortuary circumstances surrounding the holding thereof.

The deuce—the poor little deuce—won a disrespectful name through that very same euphony. You have undoubtedly heard the expression "dirty deuce." Yet the deuce is uncommonly uncleanly. On the contrary, it is rather a neat card, if running wild. The up-and-clean card in the deck is the queen of spades as employed in the game of hearts, in which it is entitled "dirty Dora."

SPEAKING of the game of hearts reminds us of a friend of ours whose wife slipped him "dirty Dora," or the queen of spades, eight times in the course of a single evening of play with some neighbors. The following morning she caused his arrest on a charge of assault and battery and appeared in court with a black eye to press the case against him.

The judge, after hearing all the evidence, retired to his chambers and wrote a learned opinion holding our friend guiltless of any criminality because he had given his wife only one black eye when eight "dirty Doras" in one evening called for two under any true conception of right and justice.

Homegrown Sugar

As might be expected, the United States beet sugar industry is suddenly aware of its growing importance. A statement from the Beet Sugar association reads:

"Mr. Henderson's sugar rationing plan gives emphasis to the importance of a homegrown supply of sugar, which is immediately available for consumption and subject to none of the hazards of shipping characteristic of the sugar supplied by foreign and insular areas. In normal times beet sugar, produced in 19 states from Michigan west to California, contributes about 25 per cent of the sugar requirements of American consumers. In 1942, however, it is anticipated that the volume of beet sugar made available to consumers will constitute about 40 per cent of our national requirements, and to the extent that this sugar is available, the severity of the rationing program is alleviated. Because of the existence of the American sugar beet industry, the American consumer will have nearly four billion pounds of sugar more than otherwise, or about 30 pounds more per person per annum."

Beet sugar is identical with cane sugar in appearance, food value and other characteristics and may be used interchangeably with cane sugar for all purposes, the association explains.

Blame Condemned Wells in St. Marys Illness

State Health Engineer Traces Cause of Ailment.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 1—Engineer G. A. Hall of the state health department reported today that the city of St. Marys, where some 400 persons were affected with an intestinal ailment this week, had been pumping unchlorinated water from two condemned wells into its distribution system.

Hall also reported to Dr. R. H. Markwith, state health director, that he found cross connections between a paper box company system using canal water and the city water plant system.

Dr. Markwith said St. Marys officials were cautioned some time ago not to use water from the condemned wells, except as an emergency and then not unless chlorinated. The chlorination plant has not been in operation recently, Hall said. Water from a third well was approved.

Dr. Markwith said reports showed the malady abating but he ordered Hall to return to St. Marys for further investigation.

EVERY TOWN A WAR FRONT, LANDIS SAYS

OCD Head Calls for Greater Speed in Defense Plans.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 1—Cleveland, Akron, Lorain and Toledo are just as much war fronts as Bataan, Port Moresby and Port Darwin, says James M. Landis, director of the office of civilian defense.

Calling for greater speed in home defense preparations in an address before a civilian defense rally last night, Landis declared local defense councils must realize "this is not someone else's war, but your war."

He told an audience of more than 10,000 which filled the main auditorium of public hall that "time is of the essence in war" and "we can no longer be leisurely in training our wardens, our auxiliary firemen and policemen, our nurses' aids.

"We cannot wait longer for effective organization on the protective services, for the installation of control centers, for the development of blackout procedures," he said.

Landis said it would not be necessary for inland cities to make preparations at present for mass evacuations, or prepare to receive persons from the east coast. Limited evacuation may take place in the east, he added, but it would not extend any farther inland than Pittsburgh.

hold the old tubes until further orders from the director of industry operations.

With the rich tin mines of the Straits Settlements now in the hands of the Japanese, the once-common metal has assumed new importance in the nation's war economy. WPB officials estimated that the new order would reduce the tube industry's consumption 5,000 tons a year to 578 tons.

The restrictions on tubes were announced shortly after the issuance of other emergency orders designed to save essential materials and speed the conversion of factories to war production. Toymakers were instructed to quit making electric trains after July 1, and to quit using scarce metals, plastics and colorings. The use of iron, steel and zinc in a long list of household gadgets was restricted.

HEAVY LOSSES SEEN ON BUSINESS LOANS

Senator Predicts Many Will Not Be Repaid.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 1—Senator Brown (D.-Mich.) predicted today that a large proportion of government loans for war production would be lost if a pending $100,000,000 small business aid bill was enacted.

He said the entire basis for government loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corp. as well as the proposed new smaller war plants corporation was changed by the pending measure.

"There are going to be heavy losses," Brown declared in an interview. "A large part of this new $100,000,000 fund will be lost."

When the RFC first began making loans to business, he recalled, congress ordered a policy of "full and adequate security." He said this later was liberalized to "reasonable assurance of repayment."

The senate bill, Brown said, authorized RFC loans "for any purpose deemed to be advantageous to the national defense" while loans to small plants and factories for war production "open the doors of treasury."

Chairman Murray (D.-Mont.) of the small business group agreed to delay final senate action on the measure until today, after six hours of argument yesterday when Senator Bailey (D.-N. C.) sought to restrict the purposes of the $100,000,000 loan fund.

ARRESTS SOLVE SHEEP STEALING IN AREA

Marion Deputies Assist in 5-County Search.

A five-county search for thieves who had stolen about 50 sheep and several calves in the last month was ended yesterday when Sheriff Oscar George of Morrow county arrested two youths, one 16 and the other 20 years old, both of Steam Corners, seven miles south of Galion.

Marion county deputy sheriffs had been assisting in the search since March 15 when 10 sheep were stolen from the Harper Seas farm five miles south of Marion on Route 98. They said Sheriff George apprehended the youths after a surveillance of their activity during the last few weeks.

Deputy Sheriffs Leroy Retterer and Ross McGinnis said they learned yesterday the youths had sold sheep at the Marion stockyard, for which they had received $96.25. They said thefts of sheep and calves had been reported in Crawford, Morrow, Marion, Knox and Richland counties recently. Sheep stolen in Marion county were sold at the Bucyrus stockyards, they said.

Both youths are held at Mt. Gilead pending arraignment in the Morrow county courts.

a fierce battle with British and imperial Indian battalions.

A communique further conceded that the Japanese had gained complete control of the air and that British patrols along the Irrawaddy river had been forced to withdraw to protect their right flank against enemy infiltration.

Jap Planes Destroyed

While the crisis in Burma grew more acute, allied fliers battling to defend the approaches to Australia were credited officially with destroying or damaging at least 18 Japanese planes in two days without losses to themselves.

By contrast, imperial Tokyo headquarters asserted that 22 allied planes had been destroyed in Japanese attacks on Darwin, Australia, and Port Moresby, New Guinea. The Japanese command said rising sun fighter planes shot down nine out of 10 defense planes which rose to meet them during a heavy raid on Darwin two days ago.

United States and Australian airmen, battering at Japan's invasion fringe in the islands above Australia, struck again today at Salamaua, New Guinea, scoring hits on a Japanese airdrome.

Australian observers reflected a mounting optimism that the Japanese could be held off in New Guinea as a result of increasing allied superiority in the air, heavy blows to the enemy shipping and the arrival of the three-months rainy season.

of crafts and employments here. I am informed that for truck drivers the initiation fee is $25 and the monthly dues $2, the same rates applying for painters and plumbers. Bricklayers pay $40 initiation fee and $2.75 monthly. I do not vouch for these figures as not all of them were given me by official sources. It seems difficult to get these figures—why shouldn't the taxpayers know what they are? They're paying these charges.

"Why should anyone have to pay to work to save his country?

Predicts Legislation

"We don't like to pass legislation to control these things, but legislation is coming. Over in Virginia a federal employment agency was found operating as a recruiting station to collect union dues.

"Unions have their merits and we don't want to disturb their basic function, but it's the racketeering in them that must be stopped. People just don't feel right about paying for jobs to help win the war. War is too serious a matter to have any such interference. I want the community to know that I feel no one should have to pay to perform his or her patriotic duty to produce the materials of war."

After the meeting, Cong. Smith told a reporter he intended to watch legislative developments closely and to use his influence to eliminate job selling on defense projects.

Assails Bureaucracy

Before discussing the labor union question, he had presented a background of the war outlook today and had touched on federal bureaucracy, along with defense plant job selling, as a major obstacle to this nation's successful prosecution of the war.

Of bureaucracy he said, "It is a great, corrupt federal force with thousands of jobholders, who waste tax money. This was one of the causes of the fall of France, which had built up a bureaucracy that ate up the resources needed for war.

"The government takes away automobiles by means of priorities, small businesses are put out of business by the hundreds, but the bureaucracy doesn't suffer—there's no cut in non-essential, non-defense federal spending. Meanwhile, the federal treasury is having difficulty financing this war.

"Our program for next year calls for 22 billion dollars in taxes and 37 billion dollars to be raised by bonds. I'm against non-essential non-defense spending because maintaining the solvency of the treasury and fighting waste is a part of my job."

Information Lacking

Cong. Smith said he had received "an immense amount of mail" about the Scioto Ordnance Plant over a period of several weeks and felt he should explain why he has been unable to answer the many questions sent to him. The policy of the war department in placing plants is to choose a general area, and assign engineers and realty specialists to check it further, regarding the lay of the land, transportation facilities, availability of labor and other factors. "This," he said, "is all done unbeknown to congressmen or senators." As a result, he said he was unable to give residents of the district as much information as he wished regarding the project, because he was unable to obtain much.

He read from a letter he had received from the war department in answer to an inquiry about the housing prospects for Marion in which an army official said housing was being given consideration by the war department, but that the extent of the need here had not yet been determined.

"Housing funds sometimes clear through the banking and currency committee of which I am a member and sometimes through other sources, but I can assure you that if the plan followed elsewhere is used here, there will be no housing shortage in Marion."

Protection Provided

He said the war department will provide its own police protection for the plant and that the city fire department would be called to assist only until the plant gets its own fire department established.

He quoted a war department letter as saying the source of water for the plant had not yet been decided, but that it probably would be necessary for the plant to develop its own water supply independent of the city water system.

"I asked about many other things, but the information was so indefinite I'll not even pass it on," he said. "The contract for the plant is not yet signed, but there are reasons for this and I have every reason to believe the project will go through as planned."

Regarding the general war situation which he discussed as a background for his other remarks, Congressman Smith said, "There seems to be a contest between the people in Washington and those outside Washington as to who is more aware of the seriousness of the war.

"I haven't been here long enough to see how seriously it's being taken around here, but I'm convinced that Washington is not taking it seriously enough.

"The war has been going against us. We're up against a great struggle for our very existence. We're fighting a two-ocean war with a one-ocean navy. Great distances of travel are against us. Germany and Japan are working closer to home and they have several years' start on us.

"We're doing a lot of wishful thinking. We're handicapped by lack of information about the Russian situation. The more informed opinion is that the Russians are not in very good position. They have a serious food problem, possibly worse than their need for ammunition. We have trouble getting food over to anywhere.

"We have about 8 million tons of shipping. It has been estimated we would need to transport an army of 5 million men for a successful invasion of the continent. To transport them 3,000 miles would require between 9 and 10 million tons of shipping kept busy for one year. It would take between 17 and 18 million tons of shipping to maintain an army of 5 million men 3,000 miles from our shores.

"In my opinion there are no words that can exaggerate the seriousness of the war. I believe it's going to take every last ounce of energy, energy and effort to win. I have no doubt but what we'll win, but we must first realize the seriousness of the situation."

"The United States will be carved up into another Balkan mess if we lose. America will be gone."

RUBBER

had visited Standard's plant in 1939.

In this letter, an unidentified Standard representative said that Werkenthin came away without any fundamental knowledge of Standard's process of producing butyl synthetic rubber.

Farish insisted that Werkenthin was a civilian employe who was interested primarily in the use to which the navy might put the product, that he had little if any interest in how it was manufactured and that the navy itself did not desire to enter the synthetic rubber producing field.

Only Part Revealed

"It is clear then," O'Mahoney testified, "that when you testified in 1939 you were making full disclosures to the army and the navy about synthetic rubber, you were giving them only part of the information.

"We were giving them everything they could make use of," Farish replied.

"But you were the judge," O'Mahoney said.

O'Mahoney again read into the record the letter which had brought about the testimony.

In part, it said:

"Because of the possible application of butyl rubber to some of the navy's requirements, Mr. Werkenthin had been instructed also to look into the manufacturing process. You will recall that I took up this question with you before his arrival. As agreed upon, I took Mr. Werkenthin over to the 'K' plant when it appeared that I could not very well steer his interest away from the process. However, I am quite certain that he left with no picture of the operations other than that a considerable amount of distillation and refrigeration is involved in the handling of the light hydrocarbons, and that refinery gas rather than straight butadiene is the raw material."

Statement Not Completed

Farish read only a portion of a prepared statement yesterday in reply to charges by Thurman Arnold, chief of anti-trust enforcement, that because of its agreements with I. G. Farbenindustrie of Germany Standard had furnished the Nazis with improved chemical processes and had withheld them from American industry.

The Standard Oil executive contended that information given the Germans was of no help to the Nazi program of self-sufficiency; that all of Standard's patents on synthetic rubber and patents developed by the Germans were made fully available to the United States government, and that Standard was a leader in attempting to develop a synthetic rubber industry in the United States.

Last week an anti-trust prosecution against Standard was concluded with payment of fines by the company and a consent decree under which all German and American chemical patents under Standard control will be licensed, royalty-free, to all U. S. products for the duration of the war.

RUN IN STOCKING PUTS GIRL CLERKS IN SLACKS

New Style Protects Hosiery in Marion Store.

A pair of silk stocking was responsible for one of Marion's large grocery stores changeover to a policy which has put all its girls in slacks.

One of the girls bought a pair of hose at $1.50. Three hours later, at work, she snagged them and a runner started. The girls got to talking of the cost of work clothes and went to the manager to see whether he'd permit them to wear slacks.

The manager listened and then he consented, going so far as to pay for the blouses of the slack suits.

The suits are neat and attractive. The blouses are light tan trimmed in brown and the slacks are brown.

minutes later they filed into the courtroom with their decision.

Judge Tudor in his charge told the jurors that on the basis of the evidence in the trial they could reach one of six verdicts, guilty of first degree murder; first degree murder with a recommendation of mercy; second degree murder; manslaughter; not guilty by reason of insanity; not guilty.

A thirteenth juror, Mrs. Lucille Spar of near Ada, who was present throughout the trial in the event one of the 12 was taken ill, was dismissed immediately before the jury started its deliberations.

Those who served on the jury are Mrs. Minda Flynn of south of Kenton, Mrs. Eva Kennel of Kenton, Joseph A. Hougendobler of Forest, Mrs. Ruth Henkle of Roundhead, Mrs. Agnes Dunson of southeast of Kenton, LeRoy Lenhart, Mrs. Floy Jones and Walter Beach of west of Kenton, True W. Yale and Lymon Turner of Ada, Ray Range of east of Kenton and Ferdinand Loubis of southeast of Kenton.

31 Witnesses Heard

Thirty-one witnesses testified during the trial and the court was compelled to appoint three additional specialists in mental and nervous disorders to study the sanity of Raver. The specialists testified that he is sane now and presumably was sane at the time of the crime.

Raver, who admitted shooting his wife, Jan. 26, was indicted for first degree murder four days later. He pleaded "not guilty by reason of insanity" on Feb. 14, and was held in the Lima state hospital for criminally insane from Feb. 16 to Feb. 26 for observation.

The state, which did not ask the death penalty, contended that the youth had planned to slay his wife because of wrath over her announced intention of seeking a divorce.

Defense Contention

The defense contended that the act was the result of domestic difficulties that undermined his sanity, and was not premeditated.

Only four character witnesses were called by the state Tuesday, and they testified as to the good repute of Mrs. Wetherill, before attorneys started their summation of proceedings.

Making pleas for the prisoner were Attorneys Clarence M. Cessna and Hoof. The state's closing arguments were made by Prosecutor Hanna and Attorney Mahon.

India May Let Freedom Chance Slip from Grasp

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Pessimism emanating from New Delhi regarding the fate of Britain's offer of dominion status is causing widespread expressions of fear that dark-eyed India, having sought so eagerly and so long for independence, is now going to fail to rise to the occasion and seize the opportunity of centuries.

This is far more than a family affair in the British empire. It is one of the paramount issues of the moment for the whole world, for the hordes of the Rising Sun are at the gates of Hindustan, and the course of the war is involved.

Only this great war crisis could have induced Britain to make such a sweeping concession, for she is a convinced that India isn't ready for self-government. True, there are difficulties to be overcome, but those are largely inherent in the religious and social structure of India. They haven't been injected into the affair by the British, and would still be present if Britain withdrew entirely and let India go her own way.

Astonishing Attitude

It is astonishing to hear Indian leaders insisting that they can't accept Britain's qualification that conduct of the war remain in her hands. India has no military experts, and she hasn't even a butter-paddle with which to defend herself.

In short, it is disappointing to Indian lovers of freedom and well-wishers to see her hesitate.

One wonders what has happened to Gandhi. One of the outstanding leaders of generations, for long years he has battled for Indian independence and has gone to prison many times for his crusade.

And yet now when he has a double Nelson on John Bull and we trust friend John will expose our blindness Gandhi hesitates over an offer which, if it doesn't give him precisely what he wants, assuredly must lead to it. Having defended the Mahatma in many arguments in conservative England, and having even toted my long lers up to sit on the floor and listen in admiration to his words of wisdom, I feel at liberty to ask what has happened to his famous sagacity.

Japs Have Yoke Ready

The way matters stand, with the Jap successes continuing in Burma, Gandhi may find himself not only without dominion status but a slave under the Japanese yoke. Countless millions of his people may follow him into servitude merely on his word.

One sometime wonders whether the Indians' realize their danger. Gandhi doesn't believe in war. A few weeks ago he asserted that if the Nazis came to Hindustan, the all India congress, of which he is spiritual head, would give them the fight it has given Britain that is, passive resistance.

That's all very well, but if India thinks she can beat the Japs by passive resistance, she has a brutal awakening coming. This is a grim time when idealism must be bolstered by realism—or call it plain horse-sense. Certainly it is a dangerous moment to be arguing on the battlements.

MASONIC GROUP HOLDS ANNUAL INSPECTION

80 Attend Dinner Preceding Program.

Grand officers were guests when the annual inspection of Marion Chapte, No. 82, R. A. M. was conducted Tuesday night. The meeting was preceded by a dinner for more than 80 members and guests, served by Lydia Chapter No. 83, Order of the Eastern Star. The inspection was conducted by John F. Furman of Findlay, inspector of the Seventh district which includes Marion. Mr. Furman complimented the officers on their work at the close of the inspection.

Following the inspection short talks were given by the guests and Harold Grigsby, past high priest of the chapter and junior past master of Marion Lodge No. 70, F. and A. M., presented Burr A. Sanford, grand high priest of the grand chapter, with an autographed copy of the history of Marion Lodge No. 70.

Guests included Mr. Sanford of Youngstown, George Schoedinger of Columbus, deputy grand high priest, Clem Beal of Bucyrus, grand royal arch captain, Anthony T. Vollmann of Columbus, district inspector of the Eleventh district, Bud Lisle of Galion, inspector of the Tenth district, Paul E. Reed of Columbus, grand sentinel of the grand council and Mr. Furman.

FAIR BOARD MOVES TO REARRANGE DATES

Week of Sept. 1-4 May Be Chosen.

Permission to change the Marion county fair from the week of Aug. 25-28 to Sept. 1-4 was granted today by John T. Brown, state director of agriculture. The Associated Press reported today in Columbus.

William Kay Duke, secretary of the Marion county fair board, said the change resulted from cancellation of the Ohio State fair. Huron and Stark counties were also granted privilege of rearranging dates. Cancellation of previously - arranged dates will give the Marion county fair little competition, whereas under the old dates the fair here would be competing with 11 others in Ohio for box-office racing and entertainment programs.

Before the new dates become official fair board authorities must rearrange contracts for entertainment and exhibits previously contracted. In the event holders of present contracts are unable to adjust their schedule to the Marion county calendar, officials probably will drop the new dates in favor of the previously-set date.

REV. RIGGS QUITS MARION PASTORATE

Will Conclude Fite Memorial Service April 26.

Rev. W. K. Riggs today made public his resignation as pastor of Fite Memorial Baptist church on Davids street.

The resignation, effective following services on Sunday, April 26, was presented to the congregation Sunday following its presentation to the board of deacons.

Rev. Riggs came to Marion three and a half years ago from Parkersburg, W. Va., and during his pastorate of the church he has been active in the Marion Baptist association. He entered the ministry 22 years ago.

He expects to remain in Marion during the summer months, except for a revival campaign which he will conduct in Huntington, W. Va., in July.

In the fall he will enter on a series of revival campaigns and eventually will resume a pastorate, he said today.

Rev. Riggs has been in ill health for some time and in January of this year suffered an illness of pneumonia. The family home is at 242 North Grand avenue.

Summer Softball Program To Be Discussed at Y. M. C. A. Meeting Tuesday; High School Athletic Teams Take Equipment at Ashland, Mt. Vernon and Elyria.

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

It wasn't over five years ago that a joke on the day of days—April Fool's Day—was the thing that. A man [illegible] his wits with that of another couldn't be [illegible] man about town.

But today, with dictators on the [illegible] casting a shadow over America's happiness [illegible] already allotted to the business of w[illegible] honored place in our society.

Rather we look upon it as a habit to be [illegible] like an old coat retired for a brief re[illegible]

Just as all other everyday habits have already been [illegible] war-time necessities, so shall the [illegible] sports calendar of Marion. It seems likely that the extensive recreational ball program carried on each summer through the direction of the Y. M. C. A., may be curtailed to some extent—not by the desire of the sponsors or participants but in the main a result of decrees handed down since eventful Dec. 7.

Approved by President Roosevelt, fully approved by the Office of Civilian Defense, and okayed almost unanimously by other government agencies who have a finger in the pie, softball will probably decline in Marion in the one year in which it should be the most popular summer sport.

Why will it decline in favor here?

Officials affiliated with the association feel that the ban on tires for privately-owned autos will make it next to impossible for players to reach distant playing fields after getting out of defense plants as late as 6 o'clock. Normally Marion softball games are started at 6:30.

On the other hand spectator interest probably would be tremendous this season should leagues operate. Change to daylight savings time affords one more hour of daylight and will tend to increase attendance in city parks where all leagues operate.

Next Tuesday night officials of the Marion Softball commission will meet with team managers and players at the Y. M. C. A. The occasion will be the annual spring banquet, natural forerunner to the opening of the league season.

Without doubt at this meeting destiny of the leagues will be decided. Here's one vote of hope that players, managers, Y. M. C. A. officials, fans, and Marion as a whole see the need to keep present recreation facilities active and where possible bring new phases of parttime play into vogue.

Police Blotter

Marion Harding High school's spring football practice is only two days old and so far developments such as reported in Ashland, Mt. Vernon and Elyria have failed to materialize here. According to some pretty reliable reports we have received directly from Mt. Vernon and Ashland and from Elyria by way of the celebrated grapevine, "thar's thievin' going on in those parts."

First report of a sneak thief at work came from Ashland where three pairs of football shoes were swiped. Coach A. L. Bruckner, perennial goat of the N. C. O. coaching staff, has called off practices awaiting return of the unsuspecting mud boats. Bruckner, you will remember, is the coach who temporarily fired his two star forwards because of a minor infraction of the rules, paving the way for a slim 46-13 Marion Harding High school eage[illegible] story last January. Later the Hilltoppers at full strength put the lee on the [illegible] of a 38-30 slaughter, giving them a share of the N. C. O. cage [illegible]

In Mt. Vernon schools the sports are at a worse ebb. Twenty varsity basketball prospects representing almost the entire Yellow Jacket wardrobe, were taken. Following action of Coach Tommy Thomas which included letters to parents, about half of the [illegible] showed up in the meantime Coach Myron Pyrch announced that football and basketball letters would be held back until all of the equipment is safely tucked away in the Mt. Vernon closet. In retaliation the Yellow Jacket athletes affected announced they would not try out for baseball this spring. However, Coach Thomas said no shall would continue, stars or no stars.

Coach Pyrch also revealed that some basketball players, not to mention names, may not receive monograms because of infraction of training rules during the season. Rumors of drinking and general carousing around [illegible] squad members was forthcoming almost constantly.

Reserve basketball players at Elyria felt the whip of athletic officials this week. One youth was discharged from further athletic competition because of allegedly competing with an independent team under an assumed name. Charges against two others were not revealed.

Hodge Podge

Despite the fact he dropped a three-round decision to Howard "Kayo" Crawford in the district AAU boxing finals Monday night at Columbus, Howard Hodges will represent the district along with Crawford in the state meet opening next week in Columbus. Hodges, a former Harding High school grid star, is a veteran performer in Marion Golden Glove shows.

With games of 183, 176 and 155 totaling 514, Judy Ann Walsh paced the Kline's Department store bowling team to two wins in three starts at Galion against the Polar Bears quintet. R. Engeroff rolled a 189 single game to share top single game honors with D. McClenathan of the Galion team.

The Midtown Chevrolet team blasted out a 2891 effort Sunday in winning two out of three games against the Elyria Moose in a North Central Ohio Traveling Bowling league match. Floyd Messmore with a 637 total and Junior Fields with 620 were the local's leaders. Other scores of the local team were 576 by Robert Shoemaker, 516 by Don Greenland, and 552 by Gene Gunder.

Two Delaware county youths prominent in scholastic athletic circles left Delaware Saturday for Albany, Ga., where they will be given tryouts with the St. Louis Cardinals farm system. They are Andy Fathbrucker of Hyatts and Marion Owen of Sunbury. Fathbrucker will try out for an outfield post while Owen is tagged as a catcher, according to the St. Louis file.

CONNIE MACK SIGNS ROOKIE RICHARDSON OUT OF SENTIMENT

Timely Hit Turns Tide for 26-Year-Old Minor Loop Campaigner.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 1—One timely baseball—plus Connie Mack's sentiment—has finally added a major league contract for Kenneth Franklin Richardson.

The 26-year-old rookie filled in at first base for the Athletics all spring during Dick Siebert's long holdout.

When Siebert agreed to terms Sunday, Connie told Richardson there was no place for him on the club roster and ordered him back to the Williamsport, Pa., Eastern league team.

It was another in a series of bad bounces for Kenny, a native of San Bernardino, Calif. He thought at last he had made the big time after eight years of minor league baseball in Los Angeles, Ponca City, Okla., Moline, Ill., Jersey City, Minneapolis, Chattanooga and Williamsport.

"Is there anything I didn't do?" he asked Connie. He's played three infield positions and the outfield.

"No," replied Mack, "you did a great job—but with Siebert back I can't use you."

"Okay," said Richardson, "but I'd like to stay in Los Angeles for a few days to make arrangements for Mrs. Richardson. We expect a baby in August. And do you mind if I go with the team to San Quentin?"

Mack said that would be all right.

The prison team battled the A's to a standstill and Connie was irked when the game went into eighth with score 1-1. He sent Richardson into left field.

In the ninth, two Macsmen got on base and Richardson batted them home with a double. The A's won 3 to 1.

"I've changed my mind about Richardson," said Connie, an hour after the game. "I'm going to keep him a while—a long while—all season, I think."

Mack was asked if the baseball changed his mind.

"No," smiled the 79-year-old pilot, "but he deserved a break after all the tough luck he's had. And what's the use of living if you can't do something for a fellow once in a while?"

Redleg Fans Demand New Batting Punch

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI — Joe Fan wants a look—or several—at his beloved Cincinnati Reds before predicting their pennant chances.

The optimistic fan sees another pennant on the Crosley field mast. He insists the Redlegs were as good as Brooklyn or St. Louis last year if you don't count that disastrous first month.

The pessimistic fan tells you the New York Giants, strengthened by former Redleg Bill Werber and sluggers Johnny Mize and Hank Luther will push the punch-hitting Reds to the bottom edge of the first division.

But the average baseball follower, Joe Fan, is reserving judgment.

A month's news from Tampa hasn't helped much in evaluating the Redlegs. This much is certain—an added week of training and absence of injuries and holdouts will bring them out of the citrus country prepared, which they certainly weren't last April. And, to quote Manager Bill McKechnie, they're "over their world championship hangover."

In nine of 17 exhibition games, the Reds batted an average of only .250—just three points above the figure that ranked them seventh in the league in 1941—not enough to raise great expectations.

Outfielder Gerald Walker purchased from Cleveland last week may be the answer to the Reds' $300,000 quest for an outfield slugger. If he shows up well in the next two weeks, Redleg fans' hopes will mount, for the 328-foot left field fence here is made to order for Gee who describes himself as "strictly a right-hand pull hitter."

Although Walker slumped to .283 last year after some fat seasons, including a .353 in 1936, the 33-year-old Hindan eyes the clean-up slot in the Redleg batting order and may take that honor from Frank McCormick.

Ival Goodman, recovered from ailments which kept him out of two-thirds of last year's games, seems to have clinched his old spot in right field. Hitting .333 in nine grapefruit clashes, Ival probably has spread more sunshine in the Redleg camp this spring than any other one fellow. He looks a lot like the Goodman of 1939 who batted 323, drove in 84 runs, and specialized in doubles and triples.

Center field is likely to go to Mike McCormick, who led the club in hitting last season, or to Harry Craft, a lightweight with the stick, but brilliant defensively.

Six-foot-four Hank Sauer appears sure to stay, but not as a first stringer. A first baseman, Sauer has been tussling with the intricacies of outfielding and also showing progress. He's averaged only .260 at the plate in 13 practice games compared with the .330 he hit for Birmingham last year.

Forest Team Feted at School Banquet

FOREST, April 1—Forest High school honored the Hardin county tournament winners Tuesday at a banquet at which time letters were presented. Letters were presented to Kenneth Buess, Cloyce Graffmiller, Walter Hankins, Lawrence Hougendobler, Glenn March, James Oelberg, Lee Snider and William Curtain, manager. Other members of the squad present were Max Curran, Merle Hommel, Lee Kellogg, Jay Kneisley, Ralph Lodge, Carl Long, Burton Snider, Raymond Stewart, Robert Tracy, Richard Landon, Robert McClaud and Gerald Gobrecht, assistant manager.

Lee Snider was elected honorary captain for the season.

Letters will be presented to the following cheer leaders at chapel exercises: Patsy Henderson, Betty Corbin, Rosella Burk, Mary Ellen Edgington, Faye Hemmerly and Ruth Hemmerly.

Bucyrus Pro Accepts Detroit Club Offer

BUCYRUS, April 1—With the official opening of the Bucyrus Country club scheduled for today, officials have announced the resignation of William Musterd, pro at the club for the last four years. Musterd leaves to accept a similar position at the Western Golf club in Detroit.

The employment of Robert F. Hannum as grounds keeper was also announced. No successor to Musterd will be made at this time, officials said.

Cleveland Ace Quits ABC Tournament

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 1—Joe Bodis of Cleveland, a top-notch competitor in the American Bowling Congress, walked off the alleys in the ABC tournament last night without completing his singles match.

Bodis, who held the ABC's record ten-year average of 205 in the all-events, gave no explanation. His sponsor, however, said Joe had injured his back in his last doubles game, incidentally his best of the day.

A large crowd was watching Bodis as he began his doubles play because yesterday he rolled a three-game 717, second high in the 1942 five-man team competition.

Bodis opened with 197, dropped to 151 and finished the doubles his 221 for a 569 total.

He started his singles with 127, followed with 112 and then sat out the third game as his partner, James Habert of Cleveland, continued play.

Louis Farkas of Toledo rolled 1903 yesterday for fifth place in the all-events, the only change among the leaders.

ATLANTIC CITY TO BE SITE OF P. G. A. EVENT

Pvt. Vic Ghezzi Hopes To Defend Title.

By The Associated Press

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 1—There was general jubilation among the men who make up the national PGA tournament when they got word today that the national classic would be held this year at Atlantic City—and the first word among most of the professionals was "will Vic be there?"

Vic is Victor Ghezzi, the tall and handsome pro who won the PGA championship last year at Cherry Hills in a thrilling finals match with Defending Champion Byron Nelson.

Ghezzi, who is exceptionally popular with his fellow golfers, is in the service for Uncle Sam. It is Private Victor Ghezzi, Fort Monmouth, N. J.

Ft. Monmouth is only a few counties away from the Seaview club where the PGA meet will be held May 25-30 and all the pros hope Ghezzi will be able to get a furlough for the week-long match play tournament.

Tournament Manager Freddie Corcoran said he was not sure whether Vic would be able to get away. Ghezzi told Corcoran last night that he hadn't been playing much golf but that he was in great shape.

"I'm praying I'll be able to defend the championship this year," he said.

Ghezzi, as defending champion, would not have to play in the two 18-hole qualifying rounds May 25 and 26.

Gene Sarazen, three-time winner of the PGA, also suggested that Corporal Ed (Porky) Oliver of Camp Dix, N. J., be brought down to Atlantic City for the tourney. Chances for getting the soldiers furloughs were considered good because the entire net proceeds of the event will go to the Army and Navy War Relief funds.

Most of the big shots were here today, several of them playing practice rounds for the $5,000 Asheville Open starting tomorrow and running through Sunday. 18 holes each day.

Newsom Object of Trade Negotiation

Possibility of Purchase by Brooklyn Looms As Next Development.

By The Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla., April 1—There still is at least an outside chance that Buck Newsom—a 222 pounds of [illegible] will be parading the turf of Brooklyn's Ebbets field and "home-country" as only he can for the fans of Flatbush this summer. That's where Big Buck should have been all these years instead of "adding his particular talents to one more sedate baseball circles of the American league.

If there is [illegible] the Washington Senators [illegible] need it, [illegible] another pitcher. They have been getting [illegible] pitching the [illegible] their veteran [illegible] Manager Bucky Harris [illegible] permit a [illegible] frame-up of some sort. Those kids could not have improved that much over last fall, he insists.

Griffith's Idea

But "Old Fox" Clark Griffith simply could not resist the opportunity to grab Newsom virtually on his own terms. Detroit was in a spot. It could not sign Newsom and could not get waivers on him either from Washington or St. Louis. And the club finally took what it could get.

And now, if things move along logically and no hitch develops the next move should be Newsom's trade to the St. Louis Browns for a couple of players, perhaps Third Baseman Harland Clift and a utility infielder. Senators are in sore need of both. Harris, his club practically wrecked when Cecil Travis and Buddy Lewis went into the service, has been reduced to the desperate expedient of trying to make a third baseman out of Rocco Estalella, the Cuban outfielder who is built like a barrel.

Here's the Plot

When, and if, that deal is [illegible] through, the Browns presumably will be free to sell Big Buck (the object of all this phenagling) to Brooklyn for $40,000 and a player. The Dodgers' offer, first made originally to Detroit, is understood still to stand. Buck probably would be worth every cent of it, too. He would fit in beautifully in the staff of the National league champs, taking his turn between Whit Wyatt and Kirby Higbe. The only thing the experts have felt the Dodgers would need to stand off the St. Louis Cardinals, is a so-called "relief pitcher," one capable of winning, say, 15 games while Wyatt and Higbe bear the brunt. If Newsom should return to his 1940 form, when he won 21 and lost 5 and would, of course, be murder on the rest of the National league [illegible]

Training Camp News

By The Associated Press

ALEXANDRIA, La. — The Cleveland Indians picked veterans Al Milnar and Mel Harder to continue the club's mastery over the New York Giants today but much of the team's interest was centered on Outfielder Jeff Heath. He clouted home runs in the sixth and ninth innings yesterday to keep abreast the National leaguers single handed until Manager Lou Boudreau and Pitcher Clint Brown combined for a tenth inning run and a 3 to 2 victory.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Ordinarily Manager Billy Southworth of the light hitting St. Louis Cardinals would be elated over the 21 baseblits that rattled off Cardinal bats yesterday, but the outburst came in an intra-squad game after the club's contest with the Boston Red Sox at Sarasota was cancelled because of weather conditions.

EL CENTRO, Calif. — Manager Frankie Frisch, whose Pittsburgh Pirates have won 15 of 17 spring games, says Bob Elliott, the former outfielder, will start at third for his club and that Johnny Barrett and John Wyrostek will flank Vince DiMaggio in the outer gardens.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Cincinnati's new third baseman, rookie Bert Haas, has been charged with an error in each of the Reds' last four games and has seven misplays in 65 chances but his batting mark in the 17 games is .313 — and Manager Bill McKechnie figures the club can well afford a few bobbles in exchange for that kind of hitting.

of the western hemisphere. Until and unless Argentina pulls her share of the hemisphere's defense load, it will be impossible to send military or naval supplies to the Buenos Aires government.

Chile, the only other Latin American nation that has not yet broken with the axis, will get modified treatment in regard to military and naval supplies, it was stated. This is because of Chile's long coastline and because her navy is smaller than that of Argentina.

Declaring that every government has full right to determine its own foreign policy, he pointed out the revised policy could in no way be interpreted as a reprisal against Argentina.

600 AUTO LICENSES SOLD ON LAST DAY

Brings Total to 6,300, Only 200 Under Year Ago.

Sale of 600 auto license plates yesterday swelled the number of plates sold in Marion county to more than 6,300. James E. Messenger deputy registrar, reported today. Midnight last night was the deadline for legal use of 1941 plates. The sale up to the deadline a year ago was 6,500.

Persons caught driving with old plates today had their autos confiscated by police pending purchase of plates. Officials of the Marion sub-station of the state highway patrol said today that they had been ordered to make arrests in all cases of violation.

Plates sales continued steadily today and Mr. Messenger expected heavy sales for the remainder of the week. Throughout March he employed seven extra deputies to take care of the sale. Four of these workers will continue to work this week he said today.

The office remained open last night until 10 p. m. to give late comers a chance to obtain plates before the law became effective.

Mr. Messenger announced today driving tests for adults over 18 years would be given tomorrow morning at the state patrol headquarters on North Main street from 9 to 12 a. m. Examinations for minors are given on the first Wednesday of each month at the police station under the direction of the state patrol also.

Fifth Column Activities Is Subject Of Chicagoan's Talk to Marion Rotarians

Lecturer Cites Importance of Citizens Keeping on Alert, Predicts Bombing of U. S. Cities.

"The Fifth Column at Work in America" was the theme of a talk given by C. Ray Hansen, Chicago criminologist and lecturer, at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary club at Hotel Harding Tuesday.

"Americans must be on the alert to the fifth column at work in this country," he said. Speaking specifically of conditions under our flag he said:

"When wardens come around to warn you of dangers, check their identity." He cited an example of a person who quit watching a gas main along a London air raid because told to do so by one who posed as a warden. He said a short time later an explosion rent the main and killed 12 persons.

Citing examples of the fifth column at work in America, he pointed to the propaganda being spread about current shortages in chemicals and sugar.

He said that there is no merit to the claim that, because of the lack of an adequate supply of chemicals in this country, America would not have sufficient gas masks for protection during a gas attack. If the worst comes, he said, all a person without a gas mask need do during such an attack would be to go to an upstairs room. He explained that, because gas is heavier than air, the oxygen at the higher altitude would be sufficiently free of gas to allow a person to escape its worst effects.

As to the sugar shortage, he said that he had heard a woman say the other day that she could not understand the current lack of sugar. She said only one ship transporting sugar had been sunk.

"But," he pointed out, "what that woman does not realize is that one 16-inch shell requires two-thirds of an acre of sugar cane in its manufacture. When that shell has been fired, two-thirds of an acre of sugar cane has been destroyed."

Sample of Activity

As an example of the fifth column activity in America, he said that agents for foreign countries are calling American homes and politely asking, "How is the weather there." Explaining that many answered the query before inquiring who was calling, he said that then the receiver at the other end of the line was quickly replaced. He pointed out that, by making several such calls in a given section, the weather conditions for an entire area could be easily ascertained.

He charged that the Japanese have followed an old technique in the shrewd distribution of their agents in California. Although, according to him, there are only about 75,000 Japanese in the state, they have been located at such vital defense areas as airports, ship yards and military posts.

Mr. Hansen prefaced his talk on fifth column activities in America with a brief resume of similar work in other countries.

"Hitler's success in Europe has not been primarily due to his army," he charged. "It has been due to his fifth column work, which he learned from Franco in his attack on Madrid. Franco referred to the four columns of his troops which were advancing on the city as well as to his fifth column which was already within the city doing spy work."

He said Brazil is a good example of the condition of most South American countries regarding defense.

"Brazil," he said, "while having a greater land area than that of the United States, has a population of only 45,000,000, an army of merely 100,000 and a navy of just 18 ships."

Activities Cited

German spies, he said, have been at work in South America since 1934. He said that Nazi agents at that time took a census to determine the German ancestry of all peoples living there back to the third generation. He explained that then a great drive to enlist the people in the Nazi party took place. If a person would not join he was boycotted by members of the party. If the boycott did not work, he said that all those refusing to join the party who lived in Germany were notified that, unless they brought sufficient pressure to bear upon their South American relatives, they would be sent to concentration camps.

"Many did not heed the warning," he commented. "Latest figures I have received show that 17,850 Germans have been sent to concentration camps because relatives in South America have refused to join the Nazis."

However, he said that America need not worry about Mexico. On one of several trips he has made to Mexico, he said that he observed Germans locating near each of 18 airports. But on his last trip there, he said that there were no Germans near the airports and, moreover, the airports had been littered with wrecked cars so that no German planes could possibly effect a safe landing there.

SMITH WOULD CUT NON-DEFENSE COSTS

Congressman's Three Proposals Voted Down.

Congressman Smith of Marion submitted three amendments to curtail non-defense spending when the $162,600,000 department of interior appropriations bill for 1943 was argued on the floor of the house on Friday, according to a news report from Washington. All three were defeated.

The first called for a 50 per cent reduction in the non-essential non-defense part of the appropriations. He defended this proposal by asking, "Is it any more drastic than depriving farmers, workingmen and others of their automobiles, destroying small businesses by the tens of thousands, rationing of sugar, gas and so forth?"

After its defeat he proposed a 25 per cent reduction in the same items, and after this was defeated he proposed a 10 per cent cut which also was voted down. He said certain reductions that had been agreed to were "piddling reductions." He declared, "In my opinion there is more boondoggling going on under the cloak of defense than there was under that of recovery."

VICTIM TO FACE KIDNAP SUSPECT

Illinois Woman Attacked and Left Bound in Ohio.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 1—A Hamilton matron today was expected to confront a 27-year-old Hamilton, O., resident suspected of being one of two men who kidnaped her in Richmond, Ind. Monday night and left her bound and gagged on a lonely roadside here yesterday.

Mrs. Mary Jacobsen, 32 of Covenant City, Ill., spent last night at Bethesda hospital where the report that one of the kidnaps attacked her was confirmed. She was suffering from exposure.

The suspect was arrested a few hours after Mrs. Jacobsen was found wandering barefooted and muddy near Columbia park, her hands bound behind her back by a necktie and a loosened stocking gag across her mouth.

City Detectives Arthur Meredith and Richard Crumpton said they arrested the suspect as he was replacing his car's 1942 Indiana license plates with 1942 Ohio tags. They said the Indiana tags were reported stolen at Lawrenceburg, Ind.

The detectives said they also found a revolver, several draft registration cards and a parole card on him.

The detectives said the Hamilton man told them he spent Monday night with his wife and child in Carrollton, Ky.

Deputy Sheriff Will'm Holtje said Mrs. Jacobsen told him this story of the kidnaping:

She left a Hamilton dentist's office and was starting her car to drive to her home eight blocks away when two young men seeking khaki jackets entered her automobile. One sped off, ordering by covering her mouth with his hand, the other knocked her out with a punch on the back of the neck.

During the ride of more than 300 miles, she was held near the floor in the front seat of her coach going through towns, and several times was guarded in lonely spots by one kidnaper while the other refueled the car and returned.

Shortly before noon yesterday on Brower road one of the men forced her to climb a steep hillside, attacked her and left her bound and gagged. She freed herself which were tied together with one of her stockings.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D

Ringworm

Itching between the toes and on the soles of the feet, which has been christened athlete's foot, is well known to be caused by ringworm. What is not so well known is that ringworm is the cause of chronic and recurrent itching of the skin on many different parts of the body. A condition similar to the skin of athlete's foot may break out on the skin of the hands, between the fingers; splintering and scruffiness of the fingernails and toenails may be due to this cause.

Many people carry for years, practically for life, red itchy skin of the arm pits, and besides, there is the circular, sharply demarcated eruption in the groin known as dobbie itch, both forms of ringworm.

Even the books on dermatology do not emphasize that the itching of the ear canal which is so annoying to a great many people, is in 85 per cent of cases due to this form of infection, and that pest of itching around the skin of the rectum, the disease known as pruritus ani, is of the same class.

"Ringworm" scientifically is a vegetable mold called the hyphomycetes or tricophyton. When scraped off the skin and seen under the microscope, this fungus looks like a lacy network of fine threads of spun glass. There are literally hundreds of varieties of this tricophyoin.

I have been shown a book by a dermatologist which describes over 800 species. They are all of the same family, but differ slightly in their chemical reactions, which makes for such a variety of manifestations on the skin and also difficulty in treatment, because on account of variability of chemical reactions, an antiseptic which will destroy one kind has no effect on another.

Most cases of chronically itching ear canals due to ringworm infection can be cured by the application of nearly any solution that has alcohol in it. My otologist tells me that this has to be applied by someone else—that I cannot do it myself even though I am a doctor, because whoever does it has to see the patches of skin involvement and make the application directly to them.

Pruritis ani is in all cases complicated and due to a number of causes such as overweight, high starch diet, fissures, hemorrhoids and psychological factors—tension influences. But in spite of that the statement of modern research that 90 per cent of cases are associated with tricophyton fungus infection and 90 per cent of the severity is due not to fissures or hemorrhoids, as was the older teaching, but to the activity of the fungus, is generally accepted as true.

The condition of the skin—the moist, warm soil — is ideal for fungus growth. In treatment, all these factors must be taken into account, but with especial emphasis on eradication of the tricophyton infection, the favorite application being Castellani's carbol fuchsin paint.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Finds Professor Diswell Greatly Changed, and Explains to Him That She Is Now Mrs. Graham.

RARELY have I seen so rapid and complete shift of demeanor and facial expression as that which Professor Walter Scott Diswell evinced toward me, when I announced my identity.

His eyes lightened with such friendliness that I wondered if my imagination had been responsible for my dubbing them opaldian when he first confronted me. And his old face was beaming as he unfastened the lower half of the old Colonial door and pulled it wide open.

"Of course, of course," he said. "Margaret Spencer, Jack Bickett's cousin. You must pardon an old man's shocking memory, my dear. How long is it since I have seen you? And do come in!"

Changes in Diswell

He put out his hand to shake mine, and two other proofs of the change in him ranged themselves in my mind by the side of his forgetfulness. In the old days he had never used the term "my dear," and now his hand was cold to clamminess, instead of warm, alive and friendly, as I recalled it.

"Who is the man with you, my dear?" he asked, and although I know that the familiar address is a meaningless commonplace in these modern times, I felt a distinct yet wholly unreasoning annoyance at his using it.

"The driver of my car," I answered, and he immediately countered with another question.

"Do you wish him to come into the house, or will he wait outside?"

"Outside, of course," I said, and turned my head toward Gus.

"Please wait for me near the house, Gus," I directed. "I may want to send you over to the car."

"Okay," Gus said imperturbably, and Professor Diswell took his eyes from my face and directed them to the sullen countenance of the man who had accosted us so rudely.

"Harris!" he said sharply.

The man looked at him, and as if he had been reminded of some dereliction by something in his employer's eyes, touch his cap with what seemed to me a theatrical gesture, not a part of his ordinary custom.

"Yes sir," he said, and I had the vague impression of a mocking, inwardly sneering humility. Again I was saddened by the thought that the keen brain of the old professor must have deteriorated with the years. Walter Scott Diswell of the old days had a lively and just sense of his own importance; never permitted the slightest impertinence, open or veiled, from anyone.

"Show this man the gardens, and entertain him until his mistress comes out."

And then, incredibly, with another touch of his cap the man answered smartly, "Aye, aye, sir!" and advanced toward Gus.

I felt as if I were attending a comic opera, but a glance at Gus showed me that he saw nothing humorous in the situation.

"I'm tired," he said abruptly, "and I don't care for gardens or send any entertainment. If you don't mind, I'll just sit down here and wait for Miss Graham."

For the flashing fraction of a second I fancied I again saw the ophidian look in the old professor's eyes. Then they were warm and friendly again, and he spoke almost indulgently.

"As you like, my man," he said, as he closed the door. Then, he seated me impressively in the most comfortable chair in the room, and looked at me quizzically.

"You're not masquerading, are you, my dear?" he asked. "You say you are Margaret Spencer, but your man called you—"

"Mrs. Graham," I repeated. "That is now my name."

I remembered that in the old days he had embarrassed me by his assumption that Jack and I were something more to each other than friends or distant cousins, but he evidently had forgotten all about that angle of our association, for his voice held nothing but casualness and he commented:

"Oh, yes, I understand. You are married."

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, April 2

THE LUNAR and mutual aspects bearing on the affairs of this day give emphasis to social, romantic, artistic and domestic engagements and to those occupations and business establishments concerned with these. All such should forge on with expansive and gratifying purpose, with high goals to be attained with confidence and gratification. But with all the joy and satisfaction there may be opposition from elders or old friends, with sharp words or deep wounds to be guarded against. Business relations with young folks should enjoy stability and sound growth.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year devoted to social, domestic, romantic, and cultural activities, with much progress, happiness and stability given to all such engagements or business enterprises. These should be executed with much confidence and enthusiasm, despite the opposition or lack of cooperation of elders or old friends. It is admonished that harsh, caustic or impulsive words be averted lest regrets follow.

A child born on this day should be exceptionally versatile and talented in artistic, musical, literary or other professional pursuits in which it should attain standing and good fortune.
